[Naples, FL, 9/27/18] – A fresh face to the interior design scene, Calusa Bay Design came out swinging at this year's CBIA Sand Dollar Awards. Grabbing seven awards for their team alone, including the highly coveted Interior Design of the Year Award for two separate projects, Calusa Bay surely will be a name to remember.

Calusa Bay has made an impact by straying from the Mediterranean styles of Florida's past and consistently producing creative, high end interiors with an understated elegance. While the company is relatively new to the design community, the team is a group of experienced design professionals led by Managing Director, Randi Scott, ASID, who joined the team in late Summer of 2017. "This is an extremely talented group. I'm thrilled with the work we've produced in the last year, and excited about our upcoming projects for 2019."

Calusa Bay Design took top honors, winning Interior Design of the Year $5.5-$6 million residence and Interior Design of the Year $5.0-$5.5 million residence for their work on 705 Hollybriar and 702 Tamarind Court, located in Pelican Bay, Naples FL. These two projects were awarded a combined 13 Sand Dollar awards at Saturday night's awards ceremony. In addition, Calusa Bay won Best Master Suite, Best Kitchen, Best Outdoor Living Space (both houses) & Best Specialty Feature under $10,000.

Architect Stofft Cooney and general contractor Knauf Koenig Group, were awarded Product of the Year for both houses, with Tamarind winning in the $5-$5.5 million category, and Hollybriar winning in the $5.5 - $6 million category.

Principal, Leslie Sherman is already thinking about the future, "I'm so proud of this team and the creative work that they produced this past year. It's rewarding to see their talent recognized." These up and comers will definitely be one to watch in 2019.
